About Us

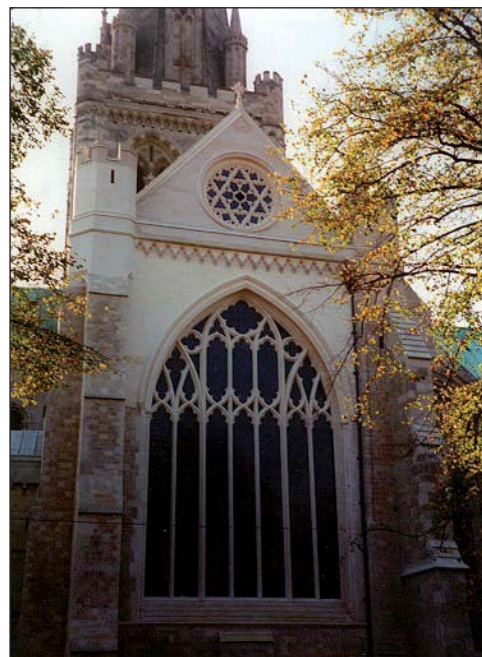

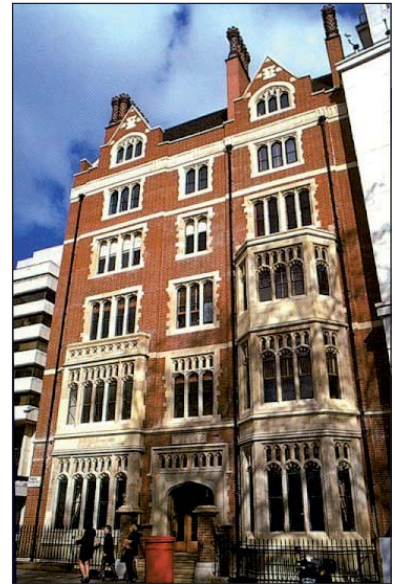

Originally founded in 1965 to undertake the restoration of the Norman Cathedral at Chichester in West Sussex, CWO has developed into an independent organisation highly respected as one of the country's leading stonemasonry and restoration companies.

CWO's commitment to stonemasonry is far reaching. The company has an enviable reputation for new build design and production with natural stone. Another area of the company's expertise is the restoration of historic brickwork, as well as the cleaning and maintenance of heritage buildings.

CWO believes in the continued major investment in the craft skills of the master mason/artisan and in the latest modern technologies for design and manufacturing. The company is committed to training, giving full personal development as well as skills training at all levels of management and craftsmanship. CWO's plant in Chichester is the home of some of the most advanced production facilities in the industry.

CWO is an accredited assessment centre for the CITB (Construction Industry Training Board) in stonemasonry, and all its supervisory staff and craftsmen are CSCS (Construction Skills Certification Scheme) registered.

Her Majesty the Queen has granted CWO the Royal Warrant of Appointment. CWO is an approved contractor to the Government, County Councils and Local Authorities as well as English Heritage, The National Trust, Heritage Trusts and many property companies and is also a member of the Stone Federation Great Britain.
